COMMENCEMENT

We hail this long expected day
With joy and sorrow, too;
Joy for the task accomplished,
Sorrow that now we must go.

Oh, Bedford Hi, you little guess
What you have meant to us,
Your days filled with work and play,
Your light, your help, your trust.

To us new ways now open,
Each to his new duty goes;
But ever in fond remembrance
Our hearts will turn back to you.

May each of us follow your teaching,
Each to your ideals be true,
And God's blessing on your future
Dear B. H. S., we wish for you.

—ELIZABETH CHEATHAM.

Class Prophecy

LISTEN, O ye men and women, youths, and maidens, and little children. Listen, all ye people of Bedford, to the words of wisdom from the lips of your prophet, who now speaketh unto you what hath been revealed unto her, even as it hath been decreed by the powers that be.

For it has come to pass that the veil of the future hath been rent in twain, even as it was so rent in the days of the wise prophets of old, and the spirit of Prophecy hath descended from the spheres to envelop my soul with her mystic power. It hath been given unto me to dream strange dreams, and to see strange visions of the glories of the year yet to come.

For as I looked into the land of the future I could discern moving among the dim shadows of the peoples yet to be, the familiar shapes of those fair and radiant beings who were once my classmates, now changed and transformed into citizens of the world outside, even as they had long hoped them so to be. And it came to pass that the veil before mine eyes grew yet more and more thin through the intensity of my vision, and behold I could see them, even as if the intervening years were not at all.

And it came to pass as I looked into the future, I beheld our President, "Pat" Creasy, in his dignity and majestic bearing, the leader of an internationally famed band. His ambition has led him upward and onward until he reached the pinnacle of success.

I looked again and I seemed to see the interior of a large church. Imagine my surprise upon seeing Wilton Farriss, the "woman hater" of the class of '30 marching slowly to the altar with his third bride, Dovie Gibbs.

I happened to find myself in the reception room of a girls' boarding school. A door to my right opened, and a stern, dignified matron advanced toward me. Upon seeing me the harsh expression on her face disappeared and I recognized my former classmate, Gladys Neal, the successful dean of a girls' boarding school.

And it came to pass that I also looked into professional circles, and in a large office among many men of many minds sat a prosperous lawyer, Vernon Hicks, the boy in our high school days had not yet learned to lie.

The scene shifted, I was carried to a large public hall and there saw "Bud" Krantz the World's famed aviator acknowledging the ovation of the crowd over his non-step flight around the world.

While I pondered these things in my heart, the door of a home swung open before my vision, and I found there in a household made happy by a wife and mother who had found her greatest ambition in the highest of all worldly vocations, the maker and keeper of the home. Verily my soul rejoiced as I gazed my last upon Florence Fuqua.

I followed my Spirit of Prophecy farther on the quest of things to be. Next I saw the interior of a hospital as I walked down the hall I saw three members of the class of 1930. Thelma Ayers, Hilda Miles, and Margaret Moseley, immaculately dressed in nurse's uniforms.

After I had watched the lights of the hospital fade in the distance, I found myself in a large theatre. A thundering applause made me wonder who the successful entertainers were. With one glance at the stage, I recognized "Fatty" and "Watermelon," black comedians.

My attention was suddenly directed to a gentleman, dressed in the height of fashion, with a cane on his arm, stepping from an expensive looking car. My Guiding Spirit whispering to me that that was "Johnnie" Maupin, but who is still very much worried over his love affairs, but does not have time to straighten them out as he is working on a debate, "Resolved that women should propose to men."

But hark, rhythmic sounds of marching in the distance. On close inspection I discovered a great military formation in progress. I was quite overcome to see Teaforde Hatcher now a successful major, reviewing Bedford Home Guards while at home on a leave of absence.

Next I happened to find myself in the office of Jasper Stanley now the successful director of a motion picture. I was interested to hear of the new picture just released, "The Handsome Lover" starring Sherman Franklin and Lois Updike, acclaimed the most popular actor and actress of the day.

Again the scene shifted and I was within a very fashionable beauty establishment, "The Elizabethan Parlor" run by Elizabeth Hardy. I was quite surprised to find Elizabeth Overstreet and Elizabeth Cheatham her assistants.

The Harvard football field appeared before me in all of its glory. I saw a young man hurriedly carrying water to the exhausted players. Seeing his sympathetic face in remembrance of his high school football career, I recognized "Jess" Gillaspie.

By this time I was completely bewildered by the facts that had been revealed to me. Nevertheless, I determined to make the most of this divine revelation. I saw a dressmaking establishment, within which were the best fashions of the day. Moving about directing the clerks was Myrtle Lawless.

The memory of Myrtle's efficiency passed away before I was conscious of one standing before me in all the glory and honor of his position, Carlton Key, now secretary of agriculture, with Kenneth Overstreet as his assistant.

And behold the Spirit of Prophecy beckoned to me and I followed. In the distance I spied a care worn woman pushing a baby carriage down the street. She was forced to halt a moment for the four little boys who were following her were engaged in fighting. Something vaguely familiar about the woman caused me to draw near, and to my surprise I recognized Louise Dooley who had married soon after her graduation.

And verily, as I beheld this scene thereat, thinking, "Aye, even so shall it straightway come to pass with each and all of us," lo, the scene faded away, the veil was drawn over mine eyes shutting out my vision the Things to Be, and I turned mine eyes to the Things that are, sure that as "coming events cast their shadows," before only goodness and truth and prosperity shall follow all the days that are to come to the fair and talented members of the Class of 1930.

The 1929 football team was the most powerful in the history of the school. Only two games were lost during the entire season, these being to Class A schools. The "Otters" swept aside five schools in Class B. The Maroon and Black were summoned to play for the Class B championship, but were unable to enter the contest on account of the eligibility rules. The curtain was first raised in Vinton, where the Bedford lads defeated the Vintonites 6-0. On the following week end the "Otters" met a strong Class A school in Salem High. Bedford scored in the first quarter after the oval was advanced to the sixteen yard line by thrusts from Goode and Logwood; Logwood dashed off right end on a fake play to hang up six points. Salem was powerless before the forward wall of the Bedford Warriors throughout the entire game but in the final quarter a Salem back intercepted one of Logwood's long leaves and ran thirty-five yards through an open field for a touchdown. The try for the extra point was good. Mtavista was scheduled for the following week end but for some unknown reason forfeited. Martinsville proved easy for the Maroon and Black and were easily defeated 20-0. The "Otters" added another scalp to their belt when Moneta was disposed of 33-0. The game was called at the end of the third quarter on account of darkness. South Boston came to the "Peaked City" with a strong eleven, but with the keen determination of the local lads plus the splendid school spirit and the encouraging tones from the student band, Bedford routed the South Bostonians 7-0. before the Lynchburg game the "Otters" were anxious to take the "Hilltoppers" into camp and were given the odds over the Class A team. The spirit had arisen to its peak on the day of game and much to our sorrow it rapidly fell for the Maroon and Black were completely routed, before the superior team of Lynchburg High School. This game brought the 1929 season to a successful close and it also marked the fourth consecutive year that Coach "Polly" Rutherford's aggregation has been undefeated on home soil.

Basket-Ball

When basket-ball practice was first begun, prospects seemed very bright for a successful team. Creasy, Carter, Witt, Herrell and Martin were the letter men whom Coach Rutherford had from last season. The team after practicing several weeks, seemed to be developing nicely when examinations came along and four of the regulars were taken off the team by the eligibility rules. Creasy was the only man left who had any experience but with the keen determination of the midget substitutes and the everlasting patience of Coach Rutherford, the cagemen struggled through an uneventful season.

Girls' Basket-Ball Group

Girls' basket-ball activities for the first time in the history of the school assumed an intra-mural aspect during the season of 1929-1930. Teams were organized in the Freshman, Sophomore, Junior and Senior Classes of the High School. During the months of January and February about thirty girls were present for practice and play. In the inter-class tournament which closed the season, twenty-six girls were in the line-up. The championship games were played on successive days. The Sophomores were defeated by the Freshmen, they in turn by the Juniors, and they by the Senior team composed of pupils drawn from other classes as well as the Senior class. Letters were awarded to all who participated in the games of the tournament. The intra-mural system is commended to succeeding classes since opportunity is afforded for so many more to take part in this activity than is the case when only one team is developed. In the absence of a school gymnasium, that one in the Presbyterian Church was made available for the girls' teams. Thanks and appreciation for this kindness is hereby expressed. Thanks is also due Mr. O. A. Thomas for coaching and assisting the girls during the season.

Baseball Group

As this annual goes to press, only two games have been played, which were lost on account of miserable fielding. Thus far in the season Gillaspie has led with the batting. Coach Rutherford will most likely round out nine youngsters before the season is closed who will give due credit to the school.

Senior Class Play

“Lucky Lady”

THE story of the play deals with a young man Jack Gilmore and a young lady Sally Warrington. Jack is scared to death of horses and Sally is very fond of them. Jack, who really can't ride at all, is introduced by a friend of his, a dashing young widow, to Sally as a great steeplechase rider.

The day for the great steeplechase is nearing and Sally insists that Jack ride her horse. He doesn't know what to do, but Henry, a negro servant, solves the problem for him by hiding her horse in a deserted stable; and he also sees to it that there are plenty of green apples and water nearby.

Jack feels relieved for a while, but the day before the race, Alex Warrington, Sally's brother, insists that he ride his horse, Lucky Lady, a horse that no jockey had ever been able to stay on. There is nothing else for Jack to do but ride.

The day for the race arrives. It was the greatest race ever held in Kentucky. Jack wins the race, and in so doing, wins Sally.

Literary Society

THE "Merrell Literary Society" was organized in September enrolling thirty-six members. The officers were chosen as follows: Byron Maupin as President; Virginia Thomas as Vice-President; Allee Nichols as Secretary-Treasurer; and Teafor Hatcher as Monitor. This Society meets monthly, at which time debates, dialogues and other features are rendered. The Debating Team is composed of Virginia Thomas, Wilton Farriss and Elizabeth Gibbs on the affirmative side; Byron Maupin, Gladys Neal and Teafor Hatcher on the negative side.

The Rotary Banquet

IN April tenth the faculty and seniors were delightfully entertained at supper by the Bedford Rotary Club. This is an annual custom of the club, and eagerly looked forward to by the seniors. The evening was greatly enjoyed by all. The excellent supper and the jolly Rotary songs made would-be Rotarians of the whole class, while Dr. Lyle's gracious welcome brought realization of what it means to be a senior at B. H. S. After supper a short program was given by the seniors. "Pat" Creasy and Miss Virginia Boan expressed the thanks of seniors and teachers for this expression of the Rotarians' interest in B. H. S. Louise Dooley gave a humorous monologue, and Ward Gillaspie told jokes on various members of the club, the faculty and the seniors. A song to the Rotarians concluded the program.

The Drama of Storekeeping is Fascinating

IT IS A DRAMA—this business of setting the stage with beautiful things. The actors, our salespeople and customers. Hundreds of times every day a drama is completed. A want is filled. A thing of beauty is moved from our store shelves to a home. A swift moving series of dramas—the arrival of merchandise gathered from all parts of the world for you always at the lowest price. Truly this business of store-keeping is never dull.
